Kevin Kitchenman is a recently retired superintendent (West Deptford Township, Gloucester County) who has served as a NJ educator for 35 years in suburban districts as a teacher, MS Assistant Principal, MS Principal, HS Principal, and Superintendent. He has extensive experience in personnel, referendum, curriculum, special education, security, budgeting, and public relations. In addition, Mr. Kitchenman is knowledgeable of principal and teacher evaluation regulations, and has expertise in the McREL frameworks, having led West Deptford's initiative as one of the original 10 EE4NJ Teacher Evaluation Pilot Districts. He previously served as a teacher and middle school assistant principal and principal in Camden County and a high school principal and superintendent in Gloucester County. He maintains active membership in several state educational organizations, and has most recently served as a consultant for two businesses that work with school districts, as well as a trained mentor for newly hired school and central office administrators. Mr. Kitchenman is an enthusiastic, energetic, experienced educational leader who will provide strong direction, positive public relations, and continued progress during a time of transition in a district.
